The New York Word insists that the democratic party still lives. At the same time the Chicago Times insists that "the blowing Gabriels are vehemently blowing their trumpets to raise the dead." It has no faith, however, in these Gabriels, and laughs to scorn the blasts of their trumpets. The party is too dead, even for Gabriel's horn. "Though they shriek till doomsday," it says, "and their horns till the sky cracks with the hideous noise, they will not bring the dead to life. Here we have a difference of opinion that is perplexing, but, remembering the electoral vote as counted last February, we are inclined to think Times is right."

The Limestone (Alabama) News, a Democratic organ, feels compelled to say "that if it cannot do any better, it fights no more under the democratic flag." It adds: "There is not a scrap of the old democratic banner left big enough to darn a hole in the seat of a pair of breeches." Worse still, it declares that one "had as well sing hymns to a dead mule as undertake to reconcile the animosities engendered by last year's folly." Evidently the News has a full knowledge of the situation, and gives good reasons for its present attitude. With a clearly ascertained Republican majority of 15,000 in Alabama, it is probable that these assertions are right, and that, so long as our friends remain true to themselves and their principles, we will retain control of the State.

The Raleigh Sentinel tells the following:

Mrs. America A. Hamlet, a widow lady of fifty-eight, and her little daughter Bettie, thirteen years of age, have walked from Louisville, Ky., 227 miles, since the 23d of June, and are now resting their wearied feet at the Exchange Hotel in this city, the guests of Mrs. Roe. This is her story. It is as full of romance as any novel Scott ever wrote, as full of tragedy as Shakespeare has crowded into his fictitious Hamlet. "My mother was a Jackson, she was Stonewall Jackson's eldest sister. I went from New Hanover thirty-two years ago to Pike county, Missouri. In 1866 my husband moved to Mendocino county, Texas, and engaged in cattle raising. On the 4th day of June, 1868, my husband and three sons were murdered by the Indians. My eldest son was 24, my youngest 15. On the 15th of May last, Bettie and myself started for Wilmington. At Morristown, in Kansas, where we stopped for supper twenty minutes, the freight train ran into the passenger train killing and wounding some twenty passengers. I had my arm broken, and skull fractured. Bettie was stunned but not seriously hurt by the collision.

From Louisville, Ky., we started on foot for Wilmington, N. C., on Monday 23d of June. Twenty-seven miles has been our best day's walk.

Tragic enough is the story. Shakespeare might have improved on his Hamlet, if he had known the tragic life of Mrs. America Hamlet and her daughter Bettie.

Mrs. Hamlet is a member of Elder Ward's church, the Primitive Baptist. There is no church ahead of the Primitive Baptist in inculcating by precept and example the importance of labor and the nobility belonging to an independent spirit.

A lad of eighteen, struck with the Stonewall courage and endurance of the good lady and her daughter, had procured free papers on the train for the mother and child to Wilmington. How few are so fortunate, ever know, or care or feel for the misfortunes of others. God bless the widows and orphans.

The revenue derived by the Post Office Department from the sale of stamps last week was the heaviest yet obtained for any similar period during the history of the Department. The requisitions issued by the Stamp Division, office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, for last week, show that ordinary postage stamps were issued to 2,454 post offices, valued at $907,251; 6,317,000 postal cards were issued to 160 post offices, their value being $63,170; 4,181,750 ordinary stamped envelopes and wrappers, valued at $24,076 84, were issued to 1,733 post offices, and 1,371,500 special-request stamped envelopes, valued at $45,806 90, were issued to 836 post offices; $13,393 worth of official stamps were issued to postmasters; $28,800 to the Post Office Department; $1,060 to the Interior, and $500 worth to the Department of Agriculture. The total value of the above issue is $1,153,996 24.

The society formed by the girls of the San Francisco High School for the suppression of slang has been disbanded. The secretary says, "It played itself out" and "gave itself away."

Harbor Improvement.

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 11, 1873. Col. Wm. L. DeRosier, President of the Chamber of Commerce:

SIR:—On Wednesday, the 9th inst., we visited the public works near New Inlet for improving the harbor, on board the steam-tug Jas. T. Easton, Captain Leary.

Since our last visit on the 5th of June, (reported on the 6th,) the break-water has been completely finished to its final terminus on Zeke's Island, 4,403 feet (near seven-eighths of a mile).

A few leaks remain in that part of the work last put up, which require a little nursing until nature brings up sand to make the beach against it, consequently a few hands are kept there to stop the leaks with sand bags, while the main force has been moved over to Federal Point, where operations have already commenced.

The beach in front of the break-water, is making up very rapidly, and if it continues to make up, as it has done for the past month, will soon form a solid beach to the island.

Thus it will be seen that one combination, or one link in the chain of works necessary for restoring the harbor, has been finished, and most successfully has it been accomplished.

When we consider the formidable character of this work, the immense volume of water being forced through this opening of near seven-eighths of a mile like a mountain torrent, by the combined pressure of the river and Buzzard Bay currents, some parts of it as much as forty feet deep, with the precedents of failure in former attempts at closing it, creating doubts of success in this and doubts in the minds of able engineers and statesmen as to the propriety of appropriating money in what appeared so hopeless an undertaking, we say that when all these things are considered, the undertaking was formidable indeed; and to the moral courage, skill, and judicious management of the Engineers who planned and executed the operations are we indebted for the eminent, we may say unparalleled success which has crowned their efforts thus far; and all this, too, with the petty sum of $275,000, a mere trifle in comparison with the magnitude of the work accomplished, or its real intrinsic value.

We can say nothing of the effect upon the lower harbor and main outlet by the increased volume of water which has been turned upon it, except from hearsay, the substance of which is a gradual improvement.

We had not the opportunity of seeing as much of the operations of the brush fences and grass cultivation as we desired, but as much as we did see was perfectly satisfactory.

On Tuesday, the 8th instant, the first crib of the new breakwater at Federal Point was placed in position near the old fish house wharf, and in thirty six hours it was entirely covered with sand, hiding it from view, which seems to indicate a ready tendency of making up the beach as rapidly as the cribs are placed in position. We are informed that a second crib was placed in position on the 10th.

We trust it will not be considered out of place, or inappropriate, in connection with this harbor improvement, to notice what appears a significant coincidence. It will be remembered, by those, at least, who are familiar with the early history of this section of the State, that the two representatives in the National Congress at this time, from the Cape Fear District, (Colonel Wadell and Mr. Ashe,) upon whose efforts are we mainly to rely for further appropriations of money for prosecuting the work to a successful issue, are lineal descendants of leaders of the first successful colony upon the Cape Fear River, and whose ancestors for two hundred years have been foremost in council and on the field in battling against every enemy to the settlement, and who, in those dark days of our country's history which tried men's souls, established their integrity by pledging their lives, fortunes and sacred honors in defence of the rights of their people against British oppression, and who, by their powerful influence, both moral and physical, did much towards the establishment of our Government.

We say it seems a significant coincidence, (and may we not hope a fortunate one,) that our present representative men should be of that line of noble patriots who fixed their destinies upon the bosom of the placid Cape Fear two centuries ago.

And if they shall exercise but a tithe of the moral and physical influence in the interest and welfare of their section, as was displayed by their ancestors in planting the Colony and protecting their much loved Cape Fear, we may hope soon to see this noble river restored to its primitive beauty and usefulness.

Respectfully submitted, H. NUTT, Chairman Committee on Bar and River Improvements.
